

UTM
UNIVERSITI TEKNOLOGI MALAYSIA

Name : Nurul Asyikin Binti Khairul Anuar
Matric number : A23CS0162
Lecturer : Nurul Adilah Binti Manshor
Course : ULRS1032-10 Integrity and Anti-corruption Course
Title : Summary of 'Ceramah Perdana' Program

Summary of 'Ceramah Perdana' Program

The program emphasizes the importance of value and self-identities. It is important because it can shape our character by providing a framework to guide our behaviour. By having self-identities, it can help us to be independent, improve our self-esteem and self-respect. The presenter also talks about the UTM core values such as integrity, synergy, excellence and sustainability. Some of the characteristics of people with integrity is trustworthy, responsible and caring while the characteristics of highly excellent people are being punctual, highly disciplined, and have a clear goals.

Next, the presenter also gave some of the keywords that we need in our life which is living good values, strong self-identities and sincerity of the heart. Living good values are moral and ethical precepts such as kindness, empathy, and honesty can guide our behavior. Furthermore, strong self-identities are characterized as understanding of who we are, our own values and beliefs while sincerity of the heart describes how sincere and truthful someone's emotions and intentions are.

The second presenter gave a briefing about the work scope of Suruhanjaya Pencegah Rasuah Malaysia (SPRM) and what is corruption. From the slides, it shows that there are many issues about corruption in our society, including among teenagers. The presenter had mentioned that all of these things happen because there is no integrity in ourself. Lastly, the presenter emphasizes that integrity is a group of moral principles such as honesty, discipline, and trust that must be embedded within oneself.